

Abstract

A method includes receiving a first request for a first reservation on a first aircraft flight, the reservation associated with a first fractional owner, and receiving a second request for a second reservation on the first aircraft flight, the second reservation associated with a second fractional owner. The method further includes deducting a first value from a first use allocation associated with the first fractional owner responsive to the first request and the first aircraft flight, and deducting a second value from a second use allocation associated with the second fractional owner responsive to the second request and the first aircraft flight.